Q: How to setup Java 8 System.out.print() with line breaks? This is the same question as How to split a string in Java using new line character?. I've already checked all the other questions and answers. In Java 8 System.out.print() should print without line break. In case System.out.print() is used to log to console then with Java 8 it should print without new line. The reason for this is when I see my logs on the console. My output is something like this loggerName 82157476af
